It covers a variety of issues ranging from new development and regeneration, to conservation and environmental protection. The glossary will shortly be updated to include terms from the recently published National Planning Policy Framework.

Annex 2: Glossary - National Planning Policy Framework

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) was first published on 27 March 2012 and updated on 27 July 2018. It is the central piece of legislation that sets out the Government's planning policies for England and how these are expected to be applied. It covers a wide range of issues, including development, housing, transport, and the environment. The NPPF is a key document for all those involved in the planning process, from local authorities to developers and the public. It provides a clear framework for decision-making and helps to ensure that planning decisions are made in a consistent and transparent way. The NPPF is a dynamic document that will be updated as needed to reflect changes in government policy and the needs of the country. It is a key tool for ensuring that the planning system works effectively and that the interests of the community are protected. The NPPF is a complex document that covers a wide range of issues, but it is essential for understanding the current state of planning in England. It provides a clear framework for decision-making and helps to ensure that planning decisions are made in a consistent and transparent way.
